3:30 – 5:00pm	OPENING KEYNOTE SESSION BodyWorking: Listening with Your Eyes As Chamber leaders, you attend your fair share of networking events. These events offer valuable opportunities to build connections, but they can also feel overwhelming. Who should you approach? What should you say? How do you exit an awkward conversation smoothly? And how can you tell when someone is ready to move on? You shouldn't have to figure it all out on your own. Join us for BodyWorking, a session dedicated to understanding the nonverbal side of networking. You'll learn to recognize subtle cues that reveal when to engage, when to step away, and how to make stronger, more confident connections—without saying a word. Mitch Issacs, Shaffer Leadership Academy	Sand & Surf Ballroom

He encourages chamber leaders to practice what he calls civic entrepreneurship, actively innovating by capturing a vision for their communities and bringing cutting-edge ideas and best practices from outside their communities to implement at home. Dave Adkisson, ChamberDave.com	Sand & Surf Ballroom
